The Cosman Foundation organizes between 11 April – 30 June 2019, as part of the Expolaroid international festival, the exhibition „Între câine și lup” (Between dog and wolf), open to polaroid and instant film based artists. Between dog and wolf is the literal translation of the French expression „entre chien et loup” which means the moment between night and day, when there isn't enough light to distinguish whether things are what they seem to be. Like in photography, a slight change of light can transform the dull reality into a dream, or a nightmare. It is the moment when the familiar becomes unfamiliar – uncanny – the return of the repressed. Similar, the dog and the wolf are however carriers of antinomic values: light – dark, homely – wild, human – animal, safety – danger, etc. We invite you to speculate the poetic charge of this in-between by sending us your proposals at fundatiacosman@gmail.com, until the 1st of March included.

The proposals must contain:

- A short statement about your work and a short biography (max. 1 pag.)
- 10 representative images (300 dpi)
- The exhibition format* (original, print, installation, projection, etc.) the framing type if it is the case, and the framing/exhibiting dimensions.
- Contact coordinates

*We will privilege the original format, understanding by this the format that the artist considers ideal for exhibiting her/his work, whether it is the original polaroid, enlarged print, installation or other. The exhibition modalities and framing will be discussed individually (we can provide frames and do the framing, if needed).

Calendar :

- Until the 1st of march, reception of proposals
- 1 - 10 march, selection of the participants
- 10 march – 1st of april, reception of works
- 11 april – 30 june, exhibition
- 1 july – 31 july, return of the works

The sending of the works will be in charge of the artists. *The return of the works will be in charge of the Foundation.
